Abstract

A census survey was conducted on firms of the converted wood products (CWP) industry of Newfoundland during the summer of 1988. This directory presents the addresses of firms in Newfoundland and Labrador, and each firm's area of product specialization.

Résumé

Un recensement des entreprises de l'industrie des produits dérivé du bois a été mené à Terre-Neuve au cours de l'eté 1988. Le présent annuaire contient les adresses de ces entreprises à Terre-Neuve et au Labrador, de meme que leurs domaines respectifs de spécialisation.

Forward

This directory presents the names, addresses and product specialty of 83 converted wood products (CWP) firms in Newfoundland and Labrador. The information was collected through a census survey conducted on the CWP industry during the summer of 1988. The detailed results of the census survey were published in a separate report, "The Converted Wood Products Industry of Newfoundland, 1987"[1].

This directory is intended to promote a better knowledge of the CWP industry of Newfoundland. It is intended to be used by domestic and foreign businesses involved in any aspect of the local CWP industry. The information provided in this directory has been updated to the time of publication.

Acknowledgements

The author wishes to thank the following individuals, firms and government departments for their co-operation and contributions to this directory. Thanks to the owners of converted wood products firms in Newfoundland for their participation in the 1988 census survey. Without their co-operation in providing the requisite business information, this directory and the associated report could not have been successfully completed. Sincere thanks to Peter Trelawny and Grant Milne, Forestry Canada, for their guidance and advice during the census enumeration and writing of this publication. Thanks are also due to Brian Collins of the province's Department of Development and Tourism and numerous individuals with the provincial Department of Forestry for their assistance during the enumeration, especially Barry Garland and Albert King. The author also wishes to acknowledge the assistance of the following personnel from Forestry Canada; Dave Higdon for providing computer services and Mrs. M. Grandy for editing the manuscript.

Introduction

During the summer of 1988, a census survey was conducted on the converted wood products (CWP) industry of Newfoundland[2]. The primary objective of this survey was to collect information to permit an analysis of the current size, structure and economic impact of the local CWP industry.

In 1987, the CWP industry manufactured a wide variety of products from 22 137 m^3 of wood, with a value of $ 20 065 704. The value added of the industry was an estimated $ 10 700 967. The industry also generated 448 person-years of direct employment. Indirect economic benefits included $ 4 280 387 of additional income and 276 person-years of employment.

As a result of conversations with operators of CWP firms, a directory was felt to be a useful publication. Every effort was made to identify all CWP establishments in the province, however, some small or remotely isolated firms could have been omitted from the survey population.

[2] The CWP industry includes firms which utilize secondary forest products, such as lumber and panel products, as major components in the manufacturing of a wide range of end products. The major sub-sectors of the industry include manufacturers of kitchen cabinets, window and door frames, trusses, mobile homes, and pallets and boxes. In this study, manufacturers of wooden boats, furniture, general millwork, and other wooden products are also included in the industry definition.

Organization of Directory

This directory has been designed to provide quick reference of converted wood products (CWP) firms by name, industry sub-group and industry sub-sector.

Using the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) System[3], the directory consists of three sub-groups: 1) Residential Products and Interior Fixtures, 2) Furniture and Fixtures, and 3) Other Wooden Products. Within each sub-group are a total of 14 sub-sectors that are listed alphanumerically. For easier reference, each sub-group is printed on different coloured paper: pink for Residential Products and Interior Fixtures, blue for Furniture and Fixtures, and yellow for Other Wooden Products.

To locate firms that manufacture certain converted wood products, refer to the table of contents. Firms are compiled in sub-sectors according to the products manufactured; therefore, some firms are listed more than once. An alphabetical listing of firms can be found in the Index at the end of the directory. A map of Newfoundland and Labrador with the location of CWP firms is presented at the beginning of each sub-group in the directory.

[3] SIC is the system used to classify firms according to the products they produce. Industries are grouped into 13 divisions such as, agriculture, manufacturing, and business service industries. The CWP industry falls within the manufacturing division and includes parts of 4 major industrial groups, as defined by Statistics Canada: Wood Industries, Furniture and Fixture Industries, Transportation Equipment Industry, and Other Manufacturing Industries. These groups are further segmented into 14 sub-sectors identified by a 4 digit code.
